Two registers run through this month and barely touch. One is about handover and leverage: a new chief executive at Apple after fifteen years, a vice president telling the Fed it would be nice to have some help, a convention speech promising a payout, a stake quietly grown in Alphabet before anyone called it a bet. People deciding who holds what next, and saying so out loud.

The other register is what happens where no one is choosing. Fire in Gaza City, a wedding celebration and a reported strike, Iranians abroad arguing because the war followed them, laundry rooms converted to cells because there is nowhere else to put people. The transfers go through. The deals close. Both things were September.
